THE NEWSLETTER OF THE KENTUCKIANA BLUES SOCIETY
 "...PRESERVING, PROMOTING AND PERPETUATING THE BLUES."

Louisville, Kentucky

July 2013

Incorporated 1989

The 16th Annual Louisville Blues-n-Barbecue Festival takes place Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 19 through July 21, at the Louisville Water Tower. The tower is located at River Rd. and Zorn Ave. just east of downtown Louisville. The Friday night headliner is Claudette King (photo center), daughter of legendary bluesman B.B. King. On Saturday night, the Chicago Rhythm & Blues Kings featuring Gene "Daddy D" Barge (photo left) close out the night. Eddie Shaw (photo right) & the Wolf Gang, also from Chicago, will bring the festival to a conclusion on Sunday night. KBS members will now receive free admission to all three days of the festival, but passes will not be mailed this year. A current KBS membership card will need to be presented at the gate for free admission. Get all the details and see the full schedule inside this issue of Blues News

Some changes have occurred for this year's Louisville Blues-n-Barbecue Festival at the water tower. The event has been moved from the second weekend in July to the third weekend. This year's dates are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 19, 20 and 21. Check out the full-page ad in this issue of Blues News. The move was made so the blues festival would not conflict with the Forecastle festival held at the Belvedere. This year the Bisig Impact Group will provide free admission to all three days of the festival to every KBS member. No passes will be mailed to your home. When you arrive at the water tower go to the ticket gate and present your KBS membership card. They will check your membership against a list of members provided to them by the KBS. Admission is free for KBS members only and there will be no in-and-out privileges. Many thanks to the Bisig Impact Group for their continued support of the KBS and blues in our community. Check out their website at <http://bisigimpactgroup.com/>

In late May the venue previously known as Uncle Pleasant's reopened as The New Vintage. Hunter Embry and Dave Chale are operating the bar, grille and music venue located at 2126 South Preston Street. The venue will feature all types of music including a blues night the third Wednesday of every month. Lamont Gillispie & 100 Proof Blues will play the first blues showcase on Wednesday, July 17. Mark and the Pentones from New Orleans, LA will play a benefit for the KBS at The New Vintage on Friday, July 26. Admission is $10 and all proceeds from the door go to benefit the Kentuckiana Blues Society. You can find more information on The New Vintage at <http://www.newvintagelouisville.com/>.

Congratulations to the Hoodoo Blues Band, winner of the KBS Blues Challenge band contest on Sunday, June 2. Band members Rick Cain, John Burgard, Mike Lynch and Mike Alger will represent the KBS at the International Blues Challenge next January in Memphis. G. Miles and the Hitmen of Newport, KY came in second and Laurie Jane and the 45's of Louisville came in third. Don't forget that the KBS Blues Challenge Solo/Duo contest is Sunday, August 11 at the Maple Inn on Taylorsville Rd.

Other notable events this month include the Charles Walker Band from Milwaukee, WI at the Hideaway Saloon on Sunday, July 14. Delicious Blues Stew of Nashville, TN will be at Willow Park in the Cherokee Triangle on Sunday, July 21 as part of their summer concert series. Frank Bang and the Secret Stash of Chicago return to Stevie Ray's on Friday, July 26. Aaron Neville will be at the Belterra Casino in Florence, IN on Saturday, July 27.

We are still looking for sponsors for the Louisville Blues Compilation CD that we plan to sell at our 25th Anniversary Celebration in November. Sponsorships are $200 each and you get your name, or the name of your organization or company, in the credits and a copy of the CD. If you are interested, please contact me at prez@kbsblues.org or 502/724-9971.

Rory Block
I Belong To The Band
Stony Plain Music

Rory Block has released what seems to be her umpteenth tribute record, this one to the late Reverend Gary Davis. She stays very true to the spirit and style of Davis's gospel music, 11 tunes in all.

Little, if any, new ground is broken here; but it's good. If you like Rory Block, you'll probably like this recording. Although, Rory's sounding a bit vocally strained at times. Never one to quite acclimate to the really high notes, her attempts in the higher registers don't sound so great here, and her lower tones, where she sounded pretty good in the past, well...Rory's gonna have to stay in the "pocket" from now on.

Country/Gospel Blues has always been a mainstay of Rory's repertoire, so this recording was likely not much of a stretch for her. She is still her usual strident, strong and skillful self, her guitar ability still much in evidence. Her trademark vicious slide attacks are toned way down here, though - the sounds a bit more subtle. Could that be perhaps a constraint due to stylistic adherence to the true spirit of Davis' music? An assumption, but a decent guess, perhaps. Also, on some tunes, Rory is very much the "preacher" in that "call-and-response" manner she seems to adopt so easily during guitar solos.

Most of the tunes sound quite similar to each other, as might be expected, although "Lord, I Feel Just Like Goin' On," and the title track stand out a bit. Also, track 10 ("I Am the Light of This World") - which has been covered by others - is an excellent rendition! And, like the song says, to paraphrase it - as long as Rory Block is in the world, she will be a light for country, and gospel, blues.

Nanette Workman
Just Gettin' Started
Bros (Canada)

Past what many of us call "retirement" age, Nanette Workman is belting out song after song up there in Quebec. She's likely unknown to most folks down in the Lower 48. And if the title track is any indication, this woman might just have a few more years left in those pipes.

Workman, born in 1945 in New York City (New York City!), raised in Mississippi, and based most of her career in Quebec, was influenced by musical parents (Broadway, big bands), and even spent time on stage herself, has sung for TV and the big screen, and had numerous stints as a backup singer. So, after decades of this, it's no surprise her sound has taken on that earthy, somewhat sandy grit that often accompanies years of vocal work. In this case, it's a good thing.

This 13-song CD would be labeled blues-rock and rock-blues, which suits Workman's edgy vocals quite well. Even with the occasional tremble in a held note, she still sounds sassy and brassy, unwilling to let the years get the better of her.

While not every single tune can be decidedly labeled pure blues, it's easy to see the influence, at least, and most are quite good. The title track sets the tone with its big, swinging, rockin' bluesy rhythm and enthusiastic delivery. The backing vocals and refrain sound a tad cheesy, but...hey, can't be perfect, right?

Perhaps the best cut on the CD is a rendition of Bobby Womack's "It's All Over Now." Steve Segal's screaming, serpentine electric slide guitar sounds like Billy Gibbons (ZZ Top) meets Sonny Landreth - the highlight of that tune.

On the cover of the Stones' "Wild Horses," Workman shares lead, and harmonizes, with pop French-Canadian singer Anik Jean, and the two, along with guitarist Frank Marino, pull it off in a solid, nothin' fancy, manner.

One of the bluesiest numbers is track six ("What the Heck"), a Workman-Segal original. While the lyrics might not be so bluesy, the beat, melody, and instrumentation (complete with muted trumpet) are totally blues.

The next track ("Tell Somebody," by Sass Jordan), introduces a trio of Canadian sisters: Marie-Eve, Caroline and Karine Riverin -- backup singers. Nice!!! Bluesy, funky and gospel-style delivery at times sounds a lot like Dylan's "Gotta Serve Somebody". The sisterly trio can be heard on a few more tracks after this one, too. (Pay attention to them.)

The aforementioned Sass Jordan teams up vocally with Workman on "Memphis Jane" (J.A. Miller) and the two sound great together.

Another cut deserving mention is Leiber and Stoller's "Young Blood", which has been covered by numerous artists over the years, and this group does an excellent rocked-up version led by the smokey-voiced Workman and guitarist Steve Hill, with some nice blues harp from Carl Tremblay.

All-in-all, quite a nice effort. Workman has an eye and ear for the right kind of talent to surround herself with, and selects music to fit with her mature voice. This gal's still got it. Hopefully we'll hear more from her.

Kentuckiana Blues Society Survey * 2013

Please help us improve the Kentuckiana Blues Society by completing this short questionnaire.

You may remain anonymous. Thanks for your support. (Survey can be found on-line at <http://kbsblues.org/survey.htm>)

1. Are you a member of the Kentuckiana Blues Society? *

Yes, I am a current member No, I have never been Not now, but I have been a member in the past

2. Current annual membership dues are $20 for a single member and $25 for a dual membership. 75% to 80% of the membership dues go to pay for printing and postage costs to distribute the monthly newsletter. Should the dues be raised to help cover other costs of the organization? *

Dues are appropriate Dues are too high Dues are too low

3. One way for KBS to cut costs would be to stop mailing the monthly newsletter and make it available on-line to members. Is this a good idea? *

- Yes, it will save costs and trees, I would read it on-line
 No, I enjoy getting the newsletter in the mail and holding it in my hand
 Either way is fine
 I don't have on-line access

 Further Thoughts on
 Robert Johnson's "I Believe I'll Dust My Broom"

Bob Brown's article in the most recent Blues News (June, 2013) provides only a sketchy version of this seminal Blues song. There are also, for the Blues purist, a few inaccuracies that I will address first.

While it is true that "I Believe I'll Dust My Broom," was the second title Johnson recorded, it was the third song that he recorded. It was preceded by two takes of "Kind Hearted Woman," the first released in 1937, and the alternate remaining "on the shelf" until 1970. And, in order of release on Vocalion, IBIDMB was preceded by "Terraplane Blues"/"Kind Hearted Woman," (Vocalion 03416) and "32-20 Blues"/"Last Fair Deal Gone Down," (Vocalion 03445). IBIDMB was Johnson's third release in 1937, coupled with "Dead Shrimp Blues."

Now that those facts are in order, let's turn to the phrase, "dust my broom." This phrase was not unique to Johnson. In fact, he clearly borrowed it, like so much of his other material from Kokomo Arnold. Arnold uses the phrase in his song, "Sagefield Woman Blues," released in September of 1934. Indeed the music and lyrics of IBIDMB seem to be borrowed whole cloth from Arnold, combining the melody and lyrics of "Sagefield," and the outrageous "Sissy Man Blues," recorded by Arnold in January of 1935. Given that Johnson reworked Arnold's "Old Original Kokomo Blues" into "Sweet Home Chicago," and flat out copied "Milkcow Blues," there is little to debate about the origins of IBIDMB.

As to the phrase, Robert Junior Lockwood (as he was still calling himself when he played Midwest Blues in 1971), commented that it simply meant that you were leaving, making a clean sweep of things. The suggestion that the Dust Bowl phenomenon was the source of this phrase is unlikely. Besides the Delta region was unaffected by this catastrophe.

By all accounts Robert Johnson, like many other Delta Bluesmen, was a rambler. It is not hard for us to imagine him saying or singing the equivalent of, "I'm outta here."

The Blues is more than one song or one Bluesman. And many of its catchphrases seem to transcend the artists, waiting in the prewar Blues version of the Cloud to be found and used again and again. "Smokestack Lightning," "Killing Floor," or "Dust My Broom" belong to no one Bluesman. They are Blues. Robert Johnson was both an originator and an assimilator. He was a lens, perhaps the lens through which Blues has come to be seen, much to the neglect of Charley Patton, Son House, Skip James, Tommy Johnson, Kokomo Arnold, Peetie Wheatstraw, and many, many more.
